DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

2. Claims 1-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

In claim 1, line 1 and lines 26-27, reference to the hinge biasing “towards open and closed positions” is not fully understood. How can the hinge be biased in both positions? Exactly by what structure is this achieved?

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

4. Claims 1-13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Koike, US Patent 3,889,316. A hinge biased toward open and closed positions, comprising a first bracket 62 adapted to be mounted to a first work-piece, said first bracket comprising a generally tubular sleeve 106 and opposed spaced-apart surfaces including first openings (86, 88) that are aligned with each other; a second bracket 70 adapted to be mounted to a second work-piece, said second bracket comprising opposed spaced-apart surfaces including second openings (90, 92) that are aligned with each other; said first bracket and said second bracket being oriented with respect to each other effective to align said first openings with said second openings, a hinge pin 94 received in said first openings and said second openings effective to enable said first bracket to be pivotally movable relative to said second bracket, said tubular sleeve extending generally parallel with an axis of said hinge pin; a spring 110 having a serpentine geometry and a generally L-shape in a direction of said hinge pin axis when said spring is in a relatively stable state, said spring comprising first and second end portions, said first end portion being pivotally received in said sleeve and extending generally parallel with said hinge pin and said second end portion contacting said second bracket and extending generally parallel with said hinge pin, a center reference line extending transversely between said hinge axis and an axis of said second end portion of said spring, wherein when said first bracket is pivoted relative to said second bracket said first end portion of said spring disposed in said sleeve travels in a substantially arcuate path around said hinge pin axis between open and closed positions of the hinge, and movement of said hinge between said open and closed positions that locates said first end portion near said center line reduces a distance between said first end portion and said second end portion thereby generating a spring force that urges said first end portion away from said center line and said hinge toward one of said open and closed positions. See figure 5 regarding the door structure. The hinge can be used with a variety of device, including a tool box.
